Apple Day is here to STAY!

Dunking booths, bobbing for apples, sack races and pie eating contests are only some of the many activities to be enjoyed on Apple Day. This day, unique to MBC, is sponsored by the Sophmore Class and brings this class closer together as well as boost the spirit of the entire school. Painting the University of Virginia Bridge the night before as well as painting the Chute room wall have become Mary Baldwin traditions. Students from all the neighboring colleges attend the Apple Day mixer held the preceding night. This is MBC's most widely attended mixer.

Apple Day King Mr. Kelly and Queen Kellie Warner.

Meg Libby displays Apple Day designer foot attire.

What did you do on Apple Day?

"We sat through it."

"I limboed it."

"I filmed it."

Why do you like road trips?

"I like to get in my car and drive as slowly as possible."

"It means we don't have to eat the Dining Hall food."

"I love rush hour traffic."

Hitting The Road

PACK UP YOUR BAGS! it's Friday. MBC is fortunate enough to have many interesting places surrounding it. As the case is, many students plan out weekend trips to such places as New York, Washington D.C., North and South Carolina, and various beaches or lakes. Others opt to drive a shorter distance, namely Lexington and Charlottsville or Richmond and Roanoke. Wherever you are going, you can spot cars with MBC stickers on them travelling along 81 usually at a more than sedate speed.

Diane Chismer starts by opening a book.

Finally Finals

"Anyone for coffee?" For many, midterm/finals week is the most stressful time of the year. Some students are perpetually prepared for these examinations. Notes are dated and well organized - study sheets have been compiled. Many students, however, suddenly realize that they are responsible for a semester's work. This group can be found running around at a hectic pace, attempting to get class notes from days missed and pulling all nighters. The breaks which follow these weeks of extreme pressure are well deserved and often badly needed.

Everything one could possibly need to write a Mason paper.

Robin Kelly uses a computer to aid her in studying.

DATING?

Who is seeing whom? How long have you been seeing him? What did you do this weekend? These questions and many similar ones are repeated daily in Hunt Dining Hall as students gather to lunch together and exchange "the latest word".

Susan Sommers and Moose.

Kirstin Rowe and boyfriend Chip close their eyes to share a special moment together.

Who's dating whom in the Carriage House?

Mary Douglas Erikson is dating Thomas Hernandez.

Val Skinner is dating Jason Myers from Rochester, New York.

Chris Skinner is dating Reed Huggins from VMI.

Breaking Away

From Friday March 2nd at 2:30 p.m. until Monday March 12th at 8:30 a.m., MBC students can not be found in their residence halls. Instead they can be tracked down all over the globe. That's right; it's Spring Break. Fun in the sun or fun on the slopes! Usually, the favorite vacationing spots include Vail, various parts of Florida, and the Bahamas. Some students, however, use this time to catch up on work or spend quality time with boyfriends and family. Spring breaks were as varied as the students who took them. One common element was summed up by senior Kelly Baumbach, "It (Spring Break) gave me a chance to make my own schedule and do things at as slow a pace as I wanted. It was a nice change from Baldwin's hectic schedule."

Bahamas before MBC takes it over.

Time for BREAK!

What do you do on break?

The Lure of Japan

The lure of Japan is irresistable and anyone who spends much time there will develop and incurable fascination for the place. Japan offers a strange blend of mystical peace and wild frenzy. There is also a wonderful mixture of old and new — it is at once a beautifully preserved museum of what Asia once was and a model of what it will become. The wealth of the countryis staggering and some industrious MBC students have made out like bandits while also having a good time. A few students who have taken the time to study Japan and befriend the Japanese have already developed successful careers. The opportunities are endless and the people are a marvel.

MBC Debate team meets HSC

On April 7, 1990, the Mary Baldwin College Debate Team visited Hampden-Sydney College to participate in its first intercollegiate meet in several years. The team members included Dori Akerman, Laura Langston, Danette Luna, Christy Moody, Erin Rowe, Martha Sims, Katherine Smith, and My Phoung Vo. The debate was conducted as a moot-court simulation, the teams arguing the merits of a First Amendment, freespeach controversy. All elements of the case argued, including federal statute and the constitutional questions at issue, were designed by the participating teams. For MBC students, the meet was the culmination of a semester-long course. Taught by Dr. Daniel Metraux (History) and Dr. David T. Mason (Political Science), the Debate class helps students develop skills and individual confidence in public speaking. This semester's class involved preparation for the moot court at Hampden-Sydney. Our students demonstrated an obvious talent for the rigors of intercollegiate debate competition.

MBC is ON THE MOVE, But Some Things Never Change

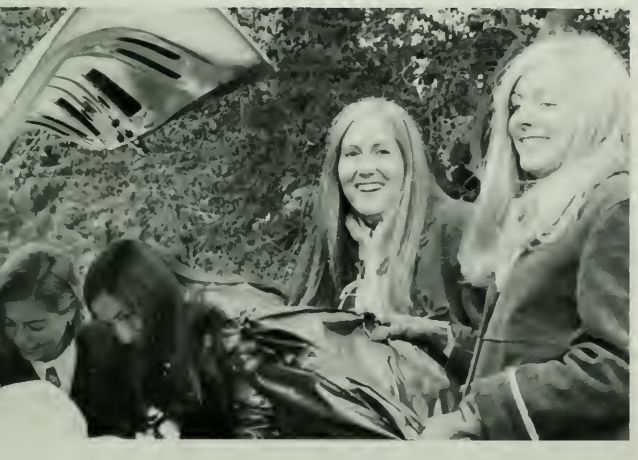
What changes has Dr. Smeak experienced during her years here?
A student body of 300
A campus pretty much bounded by Rose Terrace, Academic/Administration Building, and King Gym
A Chapel (since razed)
A covered way connecting most buildings, especially along Market Street, which then extend the length of the campus
An apple orchard for Apple Day
Freshmen on campus by 7 p.m. weekdays
Lights out by midnight
Smoking in only one designated place
No alcohol consumption within a fifty mile radius
All meals seated
Dress for dinner
No slacks unless 20 above zero
Shorts on the atletic field only
Required church attendance on Sunday
Required chapel on Tuesdays and Thursdays
Saturday classes
Two full years of course requirements
May Queen and Court
Senior procession in long dresses under shepherds crooks held by underclassmen
Graduation in King with the faculty on stage
All students required to remain through graduation

Students still road trip all over.

Students still gather around the t.v. during soap hours.

Some of the same faculty is still here.

Students still feed the cats although there is a rule against it.



Students still finish exams early to take off for Spring Break.

Students still load up the family station wagon 'til not one more thing will fit.

Freshman Halls

"Ninety percent participation equals male visitation."
Unless you're a Freshman at Mary Baldwin, you probably won't understand the power of these six words. During their first semester at Mary Baldwin, the Freshmen class had to participate in a series of discussions entitled "Ongoing Orientation." In return for an average attendance of ninety percent and an average hall G.P.A. of 2.5, the Freshmen were offered two weekends of male visitation per month during the Spring semester instead of one per month in the fall. Given such a desirable goal, the Freshman halls learned to work together to insure that enough people would show up for each orientation session.
Ongoing orientation was not the only thing which unified the Freshmen class, however. The greatest key to the unity of the class of 1993 is that they are the first class to be assigned to exclusively Freshmen halls. "If we were on halls with uppercalssmen," says Freshman, Jessica Trammell, "We'd feel left out. Living on a freshman hall is great. Each of us feels more included. There's really a lot of bonding on my hall."

Roommates

One of the greatest fears of any college student is the idea of having a roommate.

Karen Utz and Amy Stinnett are both Freshmen from Richmond, Virginia. "We were friends, but we weren't too close," says Karen Utz, "We both thought that it would be nice to room with someone we knew."

"We're best friends now, though," adds Amy Stinnett, "Our friendship has grown since we've been at school. The key to this is that we don't expect too much from each other." Karen and Amy are planning to room together again their Sophomore year.

Being happy with your roommate does not depend on knowing her beforehand. "She's my best friend here," Michelle Peters of Winston Salem, North Carolina says of her roommate, Jean Gatje, of Norfolk, Virginia, "We're rooming together again next year. I wouldn't want to room with anybody else."

Resident Advisors

Twenty four hours a day they are available. Taxi driver, ambulance driver, counselor, substitute mother, and friend aren't words that are in their job description, but perhaps they should be. They are all words that could be used to describe any Resident Advisor on campus.

"My first impression of both Ann (Pendleton) and Bobbie (Welch)" states Freshman Becky Freeman "was that they were great! They were authoratative, but really nice." There are two R.A.'s on each of the four Freshmen halls, whereas there is no more than one R.A. on each of the upperclass halls. Over the course of the year the R.A.'s become close to their halls. This is particularly true for the Freshmen. "They are the best!" says Freshman Courtney Yingling, "I'll miss them next year."

Mixers

All Mary Baldwin mixers are held in the Student Activities Center or the Chute Room. Those held in the Chute Room draw smaller crowds and are often referred to as Chute parties. Bands such as BS&M, Liquid Pleasure, and The Truly Dangerous Swamp Band were among the favorites in 1990.

The mixers are visited by men from UVA, W & L, Hampden Sydney, and VMI. Beer was offered for some mixers in the SAC during the second semester. The Chute Room, which has an ABC license, sells beer and wine coolers at all of the Chute parties.

Parietals

"It's noon-get that man out of here!" It is so easy to forget, but so simple to do. Sign in sheets are placed in plain sight on each hall. That's true for every dorm, but each dorm has varying male visitation hours. When going through room lottery, male visitation or lack thereof is usually the deciding factor.

There is a male guest house available on campus. It is usually available, in case a male comes to visit on a non-parietal night. The cost is $3.00 per night. Women are not allowed inside the guest house. The students are encouraged to take advantage of the guest house instead of trying to sneak their guys in the dorms after male visitation hours are over. It is a judicial offense to have males in the dorm rooms after hours. Students are advised to take care of their male guests, or the judicial board will take care of them.

Dating is different in college!

The key word here is distance. We have to travel at least fourty miles in order to see male students. Most students meet each other at fraternity parties. VMI Bible Study is another favorite meeting ground. Christy Moody, a junior this year, has the right idea. She does her work in the W&L Law Library where she meets intelligent, handsome men who don't stand on tables and throw beer at people.

Dating is different in college because meeting people is more difficult. There is much less group or double dating, and there are no parents to tell you when to be home. John Gottwald from VMI says, "Its different because I DO have dates now."

Formals

Fall formal and Spring Soiree, MBC's two formals, are normally held in Hunt Hall. These occasions give the students a good excuse to dress up and introduce their boyfriends to their friends on campus. The turn-out is usually smaller in comparison to the SAC dances. A common practice is to go out to dinner beforehand at either McCormick's or White Star Mills. This year the Social Committe did a beautiful job decorating for the formals, and I know that many Seniors are waiting in expectation to see what the committee will turn out for the Commencement Ball.

Monday Mornings

Hell!! Many students have returned from their weekend adventures late Sunday night. Waking up for them is a painful experiance. As you walk into Hunt Hall, groups of students can be seen huddled around their cups of coffee, exchanging weekend stories. Erin Rowe, a sophmore this year,has yet to make it to a Monday morning class. Attendance in general is low. Martinah DiSavino gets confused and still thinks it is Sunday so she wakes up happy. By the time you reach your senior year every morning feels like a Monday morning.

Beer is Back!!

What a blast! Beer was back on campus beginning with our first party. Registration party had its own beer garden which brought in crowds of people. Two picture ID cards were required by a security guard at the only door of the beer garden. People could come in from the dance and return after a cold beer. At one party, the cost of a beer for the first hour was 25 cents. The price went up a quarter each hour. Every function requires an approved ABC license. The social committee works with the Dean of Students office to get those licenses for us. In days long gone MBC was known for its great parties. If this year was any indication, it certainly could be again.

Born To Run!

On the whole, the young and fairly inexperianced team had a season to be proud of. The team, although small in numbers, participated and performed well in meets. Most of the running was done on an individual basis. Tom Northrop, this year's coach also teaches Geography at MBC where he recruits new team members from the students who make up his classes. Coach Northrop looks forward to a well organized and enthusiastic team for next fall.

Betsy, Amy, AC, and other competitors are pictured here at the First Founder's Day Cross Country Meet.

Scores were kept by the individual team members and are not available.

BATWOMEN

"Batter up!" This year's team had many returning members such as Nancy Benson, Ann Scott. Nancy, the student coach, really knows her game. Unfortunately, the team will be minus her next year as she will be graduating. The team members really worked well together and felt comfortable with one another even though they were down in numbers from last season. The players were always anxious to get the game going.. "Put me in, coach, I'm ready to play today...Look at me I can be centerfield." These words by John Fogerty rang true this season but as luck would have it, the majority of the games were rained out.

STICKS IN!

Well, you win some, and you lose the rest. Eleven games were played this year and some of them were pretty close. We did have one win as we crushed Salem College by a goal. Some new faces appeared on the team this season such as freshwomen Danette Luna and Elizabeth Smith. Coach drove the team members to practice hard and play hard. All the work paid off on the November 13th home game against Salem.

COURT CASE

The MBC women's basketball team had a challenging 1989-90 season. They feel confident that with a little more practice, the year ahead will prove to be more productive especially since Kim Pinkston will no longer be devoting all her time to editing the Bluestocking and will be joining the team to lead them on to victory.

Lacross was a very popular sport this year. There were some returning members such as Ann Thompson, Kaye Rollin, Caroline Oden, Kathy Seraphin, Kate Ellis and Caroline May. Many new faces cropped up as well. Coach Kathy McLeaf started out the season early with a workshop to enhance the team skills. Since this year was a growing year, the team will have more to build on in the year ahead. All were able to work closely together to produce some exciting games. The spectator turnout this season was spectactular. GO SQUIRRELS!

Fencing

The fencing team is actually two teams: the JV team and the Varsity. Beginning in September, practices were held from seven to nine p.m. every Tuesday and Thursday evening. The culmination of those practices resulted in the State Competition. At the start of this tournament, one student was unavoidably detained so the team got off to a shakey start. They pulled through admirably none the less. Julie LeJeune, the number one fencer for the junior varsity team, made the independent competition scheduled for the next day. Unfortunately, she was injured but luckily, Lisa Lorenzin was there and next in line to take Julie's place. Lisa competed the entire second day of the finals and performed extremely well. Jennifer Hofmeister, a senior this year, was the highest scorer. Following Jennifer in high scores are Sharon Bee, Paula Paschal and Alison Smith. ADP student Sandra Terry was faithful in making it to all the practices despite the fact that she needed to devote most of her time to her senior art project. Sandra's son also fences on the team.

On Broadway

This year's dance group had four student choreographers, Mary Cocke, Heather Jackson, Melanie Madison, and Abby Rhoades. Each took a different day and choreographed two or three dances for the Spring Program which was put on in the PAC for the first time. The group went to an All College Dance Festival in Greensboro, North Carolina. There they spent four days taking classes during the mornings and afternoons. In the evenings they gave performances except for the first evening when the group was fortunate enough to attend a performance given by The Warsaw Ballet Company.

MINORITY WOMEN in UNITY

The goals of Minority Women in Unity are to promote minority awareness and unity among Mary Baldwin students. The group presents its goals through literature, the arts, lectures and social events which are open to all students. We wish to share our cultural experiences with the MBC community. We also hope to mainstream our thoughts and ideas of being a minority at a predominantly white college and in a male-oriented society.

RED is for the blood we shed.

GREEN is for the land we lost.
